Hongkone Office: 10a, Des Vour Road C LONDON OFFICE: 131, FLEET STREET, EC

Hongkong, March 25th, 1911.

THE latest Home papers afford abundant evidence of the wide-spread interest which has been aroused in the provisions of the Declaration of London. The Hon. Mr. E. A. HEWETT, as Chairman of the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce, in his review of the past year's work of the Chamber at the recent annual meeting of members, indicated at some length the leading points on which opposition is accompanied by Captain Taylor, A.D.C., and offered by British commercial and shipping Ceptain Simson, Private Secretary, left on interests to the ratification of the Declaration. Among the Chambers of Commerce and Shipping in Great Britain opposition is practically unanimous. But there are two sides to this as to every other question. Declaration outside the Government, is stealing a zinc plate. SIR JAMES MACKAY, whose name is wellknown in the East as the negotiator of at the Magistracy yesterday on three charges. British Commercial Treaty with China in The first was making a false declaration of 1903. Sir James Mackay is one of the few men who consider that, on the whole, British shipping stands to gain by the Declaration of London, but this belief seems to rest, at least in one important particular, Police, and the third was anchoring in upon false premises. One of the principal junks. Inspector Langley appeared to prose. objections taken to the Declaration cute, and Mr. P. W. Goldring appeared for the it were to come into effect and Great Britain were at war with continental nation, the curious result of $100 and the remainder in the sum of $20 each | 937.

the articles bearing upon the question of contraband would be that all foodstuffs coming to England in neutral vessels would the master of the licensed steam launch be liable to capture and destruction, whilst Britain's enemy would be at liberty to Defendant was fined $5, or fourteen days' import foodstuffs, even for the express purpose of supporting his army, by the simple device of having them transported in neutral ships to neutral ports and then importing them overland. Sir James MACKAY contends that this is a misconstruction of the articles in question, and his argument, if we understand it aright, is that foodstuffs may be conveyed in neutral ships to Liverpool, Hull or Bristol, or any other commercial port without molestation so long as the goods are not addressed to the enemy authorities or a Government contractor or a fortified place, or a place serving—that is, at the moment—as a base. The answer to this contention is supplied in an able analysis of done in Japan. I had charge of some Japanese the Declaration by Mr. ATHERLEY JONES, a well-known lawyer, and it may be added a Liberal M.P., and his contribution to the discussion happens to be published in the same issue of the Times as Sir James Mackay's letter. Mr. Jones | was a very generally practised remedy, all naughrefers to the commentary by a distinguished | timess being held to proceed from a disordered French jurist, which is attached to the stomach." Declaration, as being the commentary by which the provisions will be construed and interpreted, and he points out in the course of his letter that M. Renault has defined a Korean, who is a cousin of the assassin of the the word base to be not merely base of "operations," but base of "supplies." That fact at once destroys the argument of Sir James Mackay, and detracts immensely from the assurance which Mr. Asquirm recently gave in the House of Commons that after the Declaration of London is ratified it will be impossible, without a breach of the Declaration, for any Power to declare all food contrat and of war, when it suits its interest to do so. view however, of the attitude of France and Russia, and Japan in the naval wars of the last quarter of a century it is obvious that we must be prepared, either as neutrals or belligerents to see food treated a hostile force, represented by a bull battalion as contraband, if the Declaration is not of The Buffs, at some point on the coast during signed, so that in point of fact the Declar ation so far as Great Britain is concerned would appear to make but very lit tle differ ence. In time of war the food supplies of Great. Britain would probably be menaced, the S. V. Corps were to form a part of this latter Declaration or no Declaration, and in the force. circumstances we are impressed by the argument that "there is but one unfailing safeguard, the ability to maintain by superior naval force free access to our ports | Great Wall. Naturally cholera, but he gave the characteristic symptoms the average layman whose judgment has been appealed to on the question is desirous of knowing the opinions of the Board of Admiratly as to the effect of the Declaration in a British naval war, and in view of the extrength of the controversy in commercial and shipping circles, it is re-assuring to possible. MOTOR DRIVER CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.

At the Magistracy yesterday before Mr. E. R. Hallifax the hearing of a charge of manslaughter against a Filipino named Angel Henriques was resumed. He was accused of having on the 20th March killed a Chinese named Chan Wai by knocking him down while driving a motor car. Inspector Robertson prosecuted

Dr. Moore stated that deceased died an hour after admission to the hospital in an unconscious condition. There were sign; of fracture of the base of the skull and there was a muddy mark on the abdomen which might have been caused by the wheel of a motor car. A postmortem examination showed that the splace had, been ruptured, the base of the skull fractured in two places and the brain lacerated. Death was due to shock.

A Chinese constable testified to seeing the motor car dash into one of a party of coolies who had landed at Jardine's wharf. Witness and others pulled him from underneath the car. The car-then went on. It was travelling faster than an electric tram.

After the accident a European got down from the car, looked at the injured man and then went on in the car again. The coolies did not try to get hold of the car.

His Worship commented on the inconsistencies of the evidence given by witness, and Inspector Robertson said witness had not been long in the force.

. P. C. Graat deposed to going to the motor depot in Des Youx Road, where he saw the manager who fold him that the reason defendant did not stop the car was that he was afmid the coolies would attack him and the passengers in the car advised him to go on. Witness then surrested defendant.

Defendant stated that on the afternoon in question the car was only going about four or five miles an hour along Connaught Road. He was blowing the horn when he saw deceased about two yards away. Deceased was crossing the road in such a way that he was making straight for the car. He was running without looking. When witness pulled up the car deceased was underneath. The car stopped about ten minutes, during which time the passenger got down and saw to the deceased. A constable then took the number of the car and, on the advice of his passenger, he proceeded. Witness afterwards told his master what had occurred.

A Chinese boy, who was in the car at the time of the accident, said when the horn was sounded all the coolies with the exception of deceased stopped where they were, but deceased continued to run on, and the driver seeing this at once stopped the car, but it was too late, as deceased had come in contact with the car.

The hearing was adjourned until Monday afternoon in order that further witnesses for the defence might be called. Bail was fixed at

Sir,-May I ask for space in your paper to ventilate a grievance on behalf of some who have no means of making the complaint heard otherwise? Yungon'ing is a district town fifty miles south of Poking : its magistrate is under the Shun-tien fu. Rumours reached us the other day of several suspicious deaths, chiefly in the gaol of the Yamen. Being not unnaturally anxious to ascertain if these were due to the plague, we were very glad to be able to send down a competent English doctor, Dr. Rivington, to investigate. He returned to Peking and reported that the deaths in question were not due to plague, but to a very infections and severe form of influenza, brought on by the utterly insanifary condition of the Yamen Gool. The Magistrate courteously allowed Dr. Rivington to enter and inspect the prisoners' quarters. There were three rooms. In one, on the k'ang, was a wooden cage with 8 or 9 men in it, all crowded together and not allowed out for any purposes. In another, a mittee, which was held at the German Consulate- | similar cage with only seven men, but one of

EXTENSION OF THE SIBERIAN BAILWAY.

It is reported that the Russian Government contemplates improving the lines of the Siberian Railway and creating duplicate approaches both in European Russia and the Far East, When these works are completed, in 1915, the Imperial treesury will have expended on the Siberian Reilway somewhat over £200,000,000, which includes both cost of construction and loss on its working. In exchange for this Russia will have a complete double-track system from the Urals to the Pacific, with double approaches, of a total length of 6,844 miles.

DEEPENING THE CHANNEL.

The new direction the bean trade has taken in exports to Europe direct, besides its diversion for local consumption in Chinese and Japanese ports, also threatens to remove the export trade entirely from Newchwarg. To obviate this the Chinese Government, at the suggestion of the local Chambers of Commerce, supported by the foreign Consuls, has resolved upon extensive works of deepening the bar and improving the channel of the river in its upper reaches.

As regards the bar, following the course of the river from a point near Duck Island bend down to the sea, it will be seen that deep water varying from 24ft, to 40ft, at low tide extends all the way till the channel on the west side of the river opposite the Flag Staff beacon is reached. Here it thouls suddenly from 22ft. to 16ft., and even to 10ft, opposite the entrance. A terwards it does not regain its depth for nearly a mile, when it approaches the Middle Bank beacon. From thence downwards for a distance of about received a report of a find at the Yilgarm gold- five miles it deepens again to about 25ft. at low tide 'till a point is reached opposite another channel opening in a southerly direction between the middle and east banks. Here it shoals rapidly to 10ft., 8ft., and 7ft., and continues at about that depth for another four miles, when it joins the sea in 22 th of water at low tide. The King has communded a dramatic enter- I lie but proper may be considered as about a mile in width, with 7ft, to 8ft, depth at low tide, with a hard bottom composed of fine sand mixed with shells. The water rises about 12ft. at spring tides, so that in ordinary spring tides there is scarcely sufficient depth for vessels drawing 19ft. The contemplated improvement of the river will have for its object the provision of deeper water at the enfrance in order that larger ships may be able to come in.

The first and most important work of imriver across the bar from near the junction the story goes, three or four le rned men, the depth by 5ft. This will be done by means of dredging with a suction cutting dredger. But the ball home were brought out, the wealth was significant of more than the end of the of the gods was lavished upon the undertaking dancing season. It was also made the occasionof a "farewell" to Inspector Robertson, who is leaving for home on pension. The combined functions were colebrated last night, and while the last dance of the season would have attracted a large crowd, there can be those present to embrace the opportunity to take public leave of Inspector Robertson and his wife, who could claim a long-standing friendsh p with most of those present. In addition to the Oriental dresses, worn, there were dancers as backswoodsmen, Continental fisher girls, Scots Inssies, Kings of diamonds, clowns and others. Altogether, the various costumes made a picturesque scone, and the care the police took of their guests, and their unbounded hospitality, left nothing to be desired to make the evening what it proved to be -an

This river was abstracting so much water from the Line and in increasing quantity as to render navigation extremely difficult at all seasons and impossible for a greater part of the year. In this way Newchwang was threatened with the loss of the river traffic on which it depends for its existence. It was resolved, therefore, partially to close the Shwangtritze branch by building a weir across it so that no water could go down that way till there was a m n mum depth of 4st. in the Line at the bifureation. In this way sufficient depth would be maintained in the Liao for native boats from there to Newchwang. The weir has been built on a diversion, a bend of the river being taken advantage of for this purpose, and it is very solidly constructed of rubble masonry in Portland cement mortar. It is provided with two sluices for the benefit of people no doubt that the exceptionally large number living on the Shwangtaitze branch below the from a cold, expressed the deep regret weir, so as to give them a certain amount of water in the driest season. The other obstructions to the river are being dealt with by dredging.

LIFE WITHOUT HEALTH IS LIVING DEATH.

This remarkable compound, the latest discovery of modern times, is without equal in all cases of defective nerve and brain power, whether induced by worry, overwork, dissipation, or other influences. Siceplessness, palpitation, defective circulation, nervous dyspepsia, tie or neuralgia, low spirits, mental and bodily prostration, want of confidence, general debility, premature decay or deficiency of the vital forces, loss of vitality, harassing dreams, restlessness that can settle to nothing, irritability of temper, female complaints, hysteria, backache, bearing down sensations, wasting diseases, consumption, night sweats, muddy, high-coloured water, &c., are all so many different phases of brain and nerve wreckage and exhaustion, the cause of by far the greater portion of the misery, ill-health, and despondency by which we are confronted on every hand, that can only be successfully combated by the use of this wonderful and highly scientific preparation. Bracing up the system generally, it gives tone to the exhausted nerves, arrests all weakening wasting discharges, restores the falling energies, and imparts new life and vigour to those who had so recently seemed played out, used up and valueless. Bottles Price 2s. Sd.

WITHOUT PURE BLOOD HEALTH IS IMPOSSIBLE.

TYPHOID AND FLOODS:

Typhoid fever and other epidemics prove to be diminished by floods, instead of being increased, as has been supposed. The former conclusion has been reached by Jacques Bertillon, a French investigator, after a study of the effects of the great 1910 inundation of Paris and of serious floods in a number of other European cities. Aside from the cleansing action of the water, how ever, it is probable that after disasters that is health officers give more thorough attention than ordinarily to disinfection and to isolating cases of disease. Comparing the flooded sections of Paris with those not reached by water, it was found that typhoid fever was rather more prevalent in the latter, and in 54 flooded areas there were 44 deaths in 13 weeks before the flooding and only 24 in the same number of weeks following. In 10 floods in Dresden and 6 in Vienna no increase of typhoid resulted.

PIERS SUNK LY PILE-DRIVER. The novel plan of sinking concrete piers by means of the old pile-driver seems to have given satisfaction to French Government engineers and others. It is called the "Compressol" system, and is used for preparing solid foundations in loose earth for bui dings, bridges, etc. The ground around is consolid ted as the sustaining piers are sunk. A conical steel mass called the "perforator," somewhat less than 3 feet in diemeter at the the base and rather more than 2 toos in weight, is used in an ordinary pile-driver for making the pier-well being repeatedly drawn up by the base and released until a hole in the ground sufficiently deep is formed. The soil immediately outside is solidly compacted. Timbering or shoring the s des of the excavation are unnecessary, and workmen are not exposed to danger from cave ins or deleterious gases, as in ordinary digging of deep pits. When the hole is completed, the "rammer"an acorn-shaped mass of metal 30 inches in diameter and weighing 2 tons-takes the place of the perforator. This rains the bottom of the hole until hard, and compresses the concrete as each layer of about a foot is poured in forcing the material laterally into the soil. The irregular corrugated surface thus given the pier adds much to its supporting capacity. The system is rapid as well as safe, and the compressed wells can be sunk 4 or 5 feet an

INCREASED COST OF LIVING

Nearly all over the world, people are grumbling about the increased cost of living. In England and France, in Australia, in the United States. and many other places, as well as in South Africa, the ordinary housewife says she is finding it harder week by week to make both

We fear, alas, that in all too many homes the problem of making ends meet is only answered by some people going without their proper share of food, and everyone knows how dangerous

Good food is essential to health and strength. and we can well pity those who have too little food to eat, but should we not also pity those who, having food, cannot eat and digest it? Incre either case, it means weakness and subsequent ill-health, but with those who cannot digest their food, it means present suffering, for they already have that most common and most serious complaint indigestion. You may have indigestion in different forms, but you cannot mistake the symptoms: a distaste for food, pains after eating, a furred tongue, headaches, bilious attacks, fits of nervous depression, constitution, dizziness, shortness of breath, palpitation, wind. and a "fagged out" feeling due to a debilitated

The cause of these troubles is a disordered state of the stemach, liver and bowels, and the only ours is to restore these organs to healthful working order. This you can do, surely and quickly, by taking Mother Seigel's Syrup darly, after meals. The most troublesome symptoms were loss of appetite, severe pains across the chest, and in the pit of the stomach, though the former were especially severe after eating; violent headaches were almost of daily occurrence, and my sight became impaired, objects appearing in misty confusion. I could not obtain proper rest, and sometimes went for nights together without, getting a wink of sleep. In fact, everything seemed to go wrong, and I became both depressed and irritable.

Then I was advised by one of my friends to take Mother Seigal's Syrup, and after the first few doses I felt slightly better, so I continued taking it, until when I had taken three bottles, I was quite cured. Since that time I have never been troublod with indigestion nor any of

HOW A FAMOUS PHYSICIAN WOULD CURE THEM.

There is no more subtle indication of the way in which the body changes from time to time than that afforded by the sensations of the individual. It is within everyone's experience that a time comes when, for no apparent reason, he feels woak and unable to undergo any exertion. The crying need is for something which will give a sensation of strongth. Under such circumstances nothing compares with Sanatogen. This is the greatest energising and reconstituent food known to science. It contains no alcohol or harmful drug, but is made exclusively of the body-building cloment of milk, chemically combined with glycero-phosphato of sodium, the active principle of the brain and nervous system. As Dr. Andrew Wilson, the famous writer on Health Subjects, has said :- " If in place of relying upon alcohol as a 'pick-me-up' the tired person tried Sacatogen, he would soon discover his wearings to be replaced by a diffe ent feeling—that of renewed vigour unaccompanied by any subsequent or corresponding dopression. Sanatogon's advantage over the ordinary tonics, ranging from iron and quinine to arsenie and strychnino, is that its use does not derauge digestion, out contrariwise, assists enfeebled appetite. MR. CHAMP CLARK'S "JOKE:"

EXTRACTS FROM THE OFFICIAL RECORD OF CONGRESS.

[LONDON "EXPRESS" CORRESPONDENT.]

New York, Feb. 16. Mr. Champ Clark, the Speaker-elect of the House of Representatives, could have had his ill-advised and offensive references to the annexation of Canada expunged from the "Congressional Record" by simply directing the Government printer to omit the passages which have so seriously embarrassed President Taft He prefers, however, to leave them on the official record of the proceedings of the House. The House journal reports him thus:-Mr. Clark". . . I'm for it [Canadian reciprocity] because I hope to see the day when the American flag will float over overy square foot of the British North American possessions clear to the North Pole. They speak our language, their institutions are much like ours, they are trained in the difficult art of selfgovernment. My judgment is that if the treaty of 1854 (Canadian reciprority treaty) had never been abrogated, the chances of the consolidation of the two countries would have been much greater than they are now. Mr. Martin (South Dakota): Will the gentleman favour the abrogation of our tariff law entirely as far as Canada is concerned, making free trade with Canada in all products?

Mr. Clark: By taking Canada in to become part of the United States, yes. I fav-our this treaty because it helps along universal

Mr. Norris: I wanted to ask the gentleman something along the line of universal peace. As I understand it, the gentleman favours this Bill for at least one reason: it will i ave the tendency in the end to bring Canada into the Union. Mr. Clark: Yes, I have no doubt about that. Mr. Norris: Will that have the tendency to preserve peace with Great Britain? Mr. Clark: Why, certainly it will, I have no doubt whatever that the day is not far distant when Great Britain will joyfully see all her North American possessions become part of this republic. That is the way things are tending now.

(Here ensued a collequy between Mr. Clark and several Republican members, Mr. Clark charging the Republicans with not having favoured reciprocity in the past—a really Democratic dectrine mentioned in Article 24 of the reciprocity treaty negotiated by the late President McKinley, which the Federal Senate killed, Thest Congressional Record? theff reports this diologue):

Mr. Hill.: I have never been sour (?) since the organisation of the Republican party, but reciprocity treaties have been in operation at the very time to which the centleman refers. . . . The Hawaiian reciprocity treaty was

l in operaticя. Mr. Clark: And we had that reciprocity treaty with the Sandwich Islands because from the very beginning we proposed to swallow thom whole.

(This refers to America's subsequent an-nexation of Hawaii.) Mr. Clark's concluding sentence of his speech was:

Mr. Clark: I favour this Bill because it enlarges our markets, because it brings us into closer relations, and because in days to come it will increase the prospects of consolidation of these two great countries.

(Examination of the "Congressional Record "shows the following annexation speech, having world-sloking importance: The people delivered during Tuesday night's debate in of the United States are thinking so little about the House by one of the Republican leaders, absorbing Canada that if Mr. Clark's remarks of the State of New York):

years hence?—a population possibly composed exuberance. of a majority of Americans. Who can tell what may come through friendly relationship with the Mother-country of both the United States and Canada! It seems as though in the course of time the American continent will contain one people, living under one flag.

Mr. Young's speech was not reported in the American-newspapers, which similarly disregarded the references made by Mr. Clark and Mr. Hill to annexation until criticisms in Great I ritain and Causda compelled the Press to cease conce ling the annexation movement.

Many speeches made during the debate in the House of tepresentatives bave been withheld from the Record for revision. It will not be known how other Congressmen treated annexation until later issues of the official record have been made public, as the American newspapers are doing everything possible to support : President Taft's efforts to hide the annexation sentiment.

CANADIAN COMMENT.

It is evident that the Canadian newspapers will not allow the future Speaker to escape very easily. Here is an example of opinion telegraphed to New York to-day from Toronto, which resembles scores of others from the Canadian Press:

President Taft, who intends to go to the polls again text year, is straining every nerve to push through a scheme which he knows the people want. He has not been so outspoken as Mr. Clark, for he is a more practical diplomat. There was an annexationist movement in 1812, and we mean no unfriendliness to our reighbours in recalling the fact that the men of the day gave their answer at Queenston Heights and Chateauguay, but that is ancient history. Most of us to-day are more interested in peace missions and celebrations of a century which has not heard a hestile shot. There is no danger to-day that our neighbours will march against us; we are not recalling old times to suggest such a thing. The friendship between the two great Anglo-Saxon unions of nations is at this hour the best international asset of both; we hold up both hands for friendship, and we are glad the old days are dead. But we are no more ready to give up to day that for which our fathers were eager to die than were they when Canadian independence had to be defended with bullets and not ballots.

The New York papers vie with each other in anathematising Mr. Clark for handicapping President Taft in his efforts to secure the passage of the agreement. The New York Sun says: It would be attributing too much practical intelligence to Mr. Clark to imagine for a moment that his blazing indiscretion was deliberate, or that it was a Machiavellian device to create difficulty which would throw the whole questi n into a special session of Congress. His simple soul is above such accomplished guile as that. The deplorable thing abut the affair is that such defeather-headed statesman should have been closen ten atively by the Democrate in the next House for an office which ranks next in import nce to that of the Chief Executive. If there is any excuse for Mr. Clark it is to be found in the fact that he has been so long one of an irresponsible minority, and so able to say what he pleased, that he finds it difficult to orient himself as leader of the future majority who will have to be responsible for their words as well as their deeds.

* Dear Sirs,-You will be pleased to learn of the great benefit I have derived from a course of Angier's Emulsion. At the end of the summer was thoroughly "run down," and felt extremely weak. I tried many different remedies, but nothing seemed to do me good. On the advice of a friend I decided to try Angier's Emulsion, and it has certainly had a most wonderful effect upon me, for I have gained over one stone in weight, and feel benefited in every way. I strongly recommend Angier's Emulsion as a great boon to sufferers from lung affections, and to all who are "run down" in health. (Signed) BRADDEN HALL, Vocalist.

HEALING AND STRENGTHENING.

Angier's Emulsion is unequalled as a recuperative in all cases of lung, stomach or bowel weakness, after serious illness or when "run down" from any cause. Because it is soothing and healing as well as strengthening, and because it is pleasant to take and agreeable to the most delicate stomach, it is the ideal tonic and builder for use in any climate. It will be found especially helpful to those who suffer from loss of strength, want of appetite and symptoms of indigestion

> CHAPTER XII. THE FORBIDDEN ISLE.

A small house boat was moving slowly in a Northerly direction over the central part of the Inland Sea. In was evening, and the heavens were dyed with the hues of a glorious sunset and the waters were flooded with subdued reflections of prismatic light; while for ahead in the dim distance of the horizon the last rays of the fast-sinking sun rested upon a solitary island which glosmed like a jewel upon the glassy son. Coming from that direction was a trading junk whose amber-coloured sails idly fluttered amidst the light and shade, and quivering upon the silent depths, quickly darkened with the deepening gleom; and between this craft; and the remote island was the golden gleam of yet another sail.

The liouse-boat's lateen sail was hauled down as there was no wind, but the vessel was being propelled by means of a large yuhlon pushed Tover the stern and worked by a venerable-looking man and a youth who constituted the crew; and on the forward deck of the boat sat Guy Merton, who was now dressed in the flowing kimono of a Japanese gentleman.

Nearly six weeks had clapsed since departure from Nagasaki, and during that time ho, had not seen anything of Usna, though he had frequently heard of her been able to trace her movements For she was far better known than he had supposed, particularly on the southern shores of the Inland Sen, where her first success as a singer had been achieved; and, although only seen at long intervals her fame had gradually spread abread and the people spoke of her as "Uens, the Geisha Queen." Yet she was as much a mystery to them as to him, and many of the simple minded fisher folk regarded her in a superstitious light and spoke of her voice and her beauty as supernatural; and some told strange stories of her wealth and her beneficence and a few declared, that she came from an enchanted isle in the middle of the Inland Sea.

It was towards this mysterious islo that Merton was now approaching after long days of searching, for the was determined to see for himself whether the e was cany truth in the strange and runantic stories he had heard concerning her dwelling place. He had traced her from place to place—though always arriving a few days after she had left—and had last heard of her at a senside town called Kokurog so it scoured probable that she ha

After leaving Magazzki he had gone by rail straight to Moji and from there round the clast to the Boston terminas at Reppu. Not glooning any etalings of her at either of those places not at the intervening stations, he had returned to Saga, where he chanced one. evening to see her pliotograph on some posters outside a theatre and learned from the manager that she had sung there five day previously and had-gone on to Fukuokus the latter town he arrived three days too late and it so happened that he always missed her in this manner during the rest of the journey

He was now leisurely scanning the approaching junk through his binocular glasses. It was a fairly large vessel and was being yuhlood, and the weird chant of her seamen and the creaking of the long our they were working could be heard distinctly. When they were within speaking distance of one another, he stood up and spok in Japanese to the skipper who was leaning over the rail of the high-raised poon. "Calm weather, Captain-where are you

Morton's heart gave a bound of expectation. "A man and a woman Captain?"
"You, my muster," and the skipper laughed

gruffly. "The woman is as pretty as a picture but the man looks like a pirate: he has the face of a monkey l'

Merton smiled and waved his band. "Sayonara, Captain !-- a pleasant voyage to "The same to you, my master -Sayonara!" The junk passed on to the southward, and Merton-who felt sure that Uena and Kuisna were in the vessel ahead-told the old man and the boy to yuhlow as fast as they could. But their arms were tired, for they had been toiling at the our nearly all day; and although hours had passed and that remote speck of canvas had changed from white to silver and from silver to gold, yet it seemed as distant as ever and would soon altogether fade from sight. Nevertheless they brightened up for a while and singing their monotonous chant redoubled their efforts, and the old man pointed hopefully towards the west, where a light mist hovered upon the Night soon fell, shutting out from their view. the departing junk and the sail of the other vessel, but there was a full moon and the atmosphere was so clear that it was possible to see a considerable distance. Being the middle of November, the nights were cold and inclined to be frosty, though the days were fairly warm; so Merton put on a tunic lined with silver-fox skin and took his place at the yuhloa, for he was determined to follow Uena and see if she landed on the island. Presently a breeze came rippling along out of the west, and the sail was heisted. Fortunately the boat was a fast one and soon began to throw the spray over her weather bow; and after the man and boy had rested themselves and had their evening meal of rice and fish, during which time Merten took the tiller, they still further increased the speed by again work-

"Will it last us to the island?" asked Merton. "Yes, my muster, it will do that. For she makes a good seven knots an hour, and the island was not more than eight miles distant at sundown." Onward they sped through the moonlight, and over an hour passed without anything being sighted. Then the island loomed into view pale and silvery on the lee bow.

Merton now went below to warm himself at a small charcoal stove and have some refreshment; and while he was there he heard a sudden shout. and the boy opened the door and inserted his

Soon afterwards Merton perceived a luge stone terii or gateway, like those he had seen in Shinto temples, rising out of the water in front of the island, and in the middle of it-suspended from the top-hung a huge orb of polished metal which reflected the brightness of the moon. "What is that?" he asked the old man,

"Well, my master, a reef surrounds the is-

"They have sounded the gong, my master," said the old man, "and have passed the barrier." "And we," said Merton, "will pass in after

"No no, my master, that may not be," answered the seaman, shaking his head and smiling grimly. "That is a forbidden island, and know no man who has ever been there. It is a strange and secret place. "And we will enter boldly!" "No, no, my master," and the old man hanled down the sail; for they were now in the calm waters and no breath of air ruffled the mirror-like surface. "I have brought you to this island, but my boat may not pass beyond

"Not if I pay for you extra?" The old man shook his head sagely and again

Powest trees festooned with creepers and having thick undergrowth of semi-tropical vegetation thickly fringed the slipre on every side and the beach was of a dight coloured sand which pleamed like silver in the moonlight; and between the islands and the jagged reef which surrounded it was a deep lagoon whose studowy wasters were nover disturbed by the wintery gales which at times swept across the Inland Sea. Before they arrived at the colossal gateway, which guarded the passage through the reof, the old man gave the long our a sudden turn which deflected the course of the boat causing it to skirt the margin of the rocks with-

No sound came from the island, yet the old seaman appeared nervous, and distrustful and kept a vigilant eye upon the dark woods along the shore, at the same time endeavouring to dissuade Merton from his rush enterprise and frequently cautioning him that their movements would be closely watched. Having scanned that part of the island through his glasses, and finding everything quiet and satisfactory, he went into the small cabin for the purpose of divesting himself of his clothing, as he intended to swim ashore.

"Ah, my master," said the old sailor, shrowdly a foolhardy one. I have entreated you not to risk your precious life upon that forbidden island, but my words have fallen upon cars which have not deigned to hear. As that is the case, my master, and as you may be prevented from returning to this boat, it would be well for me of you would graciously condescand to remunerate me for my humble services."

"Thank you, thank you, my master," said the old man, kowtowing with all humility and speaking in guarded tones as though afraid of being heard from the shore. Merton took a last searching look at the spot where he intended to land, and as nothing aroused his suspicion he clambered out on the reef, and waving adjou to those in the boat quietly let himself down into the waters of the lageon and struck out boldly for the shore.

HERPICIDE NEWBRO'S

"I am blessed with an abundance of long hair and I use the utmost care in the preservation of it. I have never found anything that pleases me as much as Newbro's Herpicide. It keeps the scalp clean and sanitary and adds a luxurious appearance to my huir that no other proparation will give. I consider it most delightful to use and I can truly say that I prefer it above all other preparations for the bair. I like your scap also and can recommend both highly to any lady who wishes a good head of hair."

> JENNIE A. ABBOTT. 2443, Worden Ayonue, CLEVELAND, OHIO.

While it is not natural for everyone to have extremely long hair, it is possible for every lady to have beautiful hair, for when the scalp is not diseased, the hair will grow naturally and abundantly.

The chief disease of the scalp is dandruff—which is highly contagious—and dandruff is now known to be caused by an invisible vegetable growth called the dandruff germ. Ordinarily, the first signs of scalp infection are dryness, dullness and brittleness of the hair, although the disease sometimes causes excessive. oiliness. Following this, the hair loses its lustre, the scalp itches more or less and dandruff appears. Falling hair and baldness represent the last stages of hair destruction.

Newbro's Herpicide—the original remedy that kills the dandruff germ—will cure any stage of this disease, except chronic baldness, which is incurable. Herpicide not only destroys the dandruff germ and stops falling hair, but it is a most exquisite hair dressing, making the hair light and fluffy and giving it a silken gloss. Almost marvellous results sometimes follow the continued use of Herpicide. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

THE STORY OF LITTLE ELIZA SCHNEIDER AND HER WISE PHYSICIAN.

Many enlightened physicians prescribe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases where the main thing needed is now, red, strength-restoring blood. It was because he knew that for blood was to blame that the physician who attended Little Eliza Johnna Schneider recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and how w'se was this advices is shown in the following statement made by the child's father, Mr. Huber

Schneider, on the 20th September, 1910.

Early last year my daughter, Eliza Johanna Schneider, fell ill with Malarial Fever," said he. "The fover would come on at dusk and continue all night, her temperature at times rising very high. Before each attack she would become quite cold. Often it was impossible to get her to sleep and she would be continually crying.
She lost all appetite, although my wife and E tried our best to get her to eat, and she grew thiu, pale and weak, in fact theroughly animic. She eften complained of pains in her back and

America - Through English Eyes. "RITA" (Mrs. Desmond Humphreys.) London : STAN LEY PAUL & Co.

Written in terse, graphic English, a frankness bordering on courage, and a piquancy all her own, Rita has placed the English-speaking races on both sides of the Atlantic under deep obligation. She delicates her book to Theodore Roosevelt, for whom she displays a sincere admiration, but neither this nor the many nice things slie says of our American cousins, both female and male, will save her from being rent asunder by the American critics. She is well aware of the outspoken wrath Dickens called down upon his devoted head when he dared to pillory some of the blatant idiosyncrasics of American life. Yet she is I mideterred from passing judgment upon certain faults, failings and foibles of the a topted or free-born American citizen; she even dares to ridicule, to condomn, to criticise boldly; and while we would not be without this exceptionably "We trented har with readable study of first impressions, we are inclined various medicines, but her to believe that a longer visit to the United States condition did matimprove. and n'closer acquaintance with all sorts and conditions of men and women in that vast agglomeration of races would result in a modification of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. some of the views expressed here so forcibly and This I did, and after she so piquantly. We agree with her, after lind taken the contents of experience of many lands and many very much better. By peoples, that there is no one so repugnant the time we had given her as the valgur American; but then it has three bottles she was quite been our fortunate experience to have met a large number of charming Americans, whose good taste, good breeding, kindliness of heart since my little daughter and ready sympathy and generous feeling will bear favourable comparison with the best Eng. land has ever produced or any of the so-called courtly races of Europe Rita assumes a serious responsibility in basing her criticisms on a two months' visit to the United States, two months spent entirely in New York, Washington and Boston. But if she had Mr. Schneider is in the stayed longer her impressions would not have been so sharp cut, and the reading public would have lost an attractive volume. We should like Compagnie stationed at to read some representative American criticism Chest trouble by Pills for Pale People are Getting On: The Confessions of a Publisher. By JOHN ADAMS THAYER. London: T Werner Laurie.

In her most recent book, Rita has got something to say on the American tendency to measure success by the accumulation of dollars There is a great deal of self-revelation in this book of Mr. Thaver's which justifies Rita's remark Nevertheless, there is an undeniable attractiveness about Mr. Thayer's frankness, a frankness that disarms criticism without very strongly appealing to our sense of admiration. Here we have an example of what it is possible to accomplish by individual effort touched by genius the rise of a printer's boy to the head of a large publishing house and the founder of a successful magazine. We might add here—an American success achieved by American methods: Other men in other countries have risen from humble life to position's of eminouce and trust and responsibility. Engjish history is full of names that readily occur to one, and France and Germany and Italy and Spain and Holland are not devoid of striking examples of greater achievement than Mr Thuyer's. Carnegie, Strathcone and Mount Stoplen all came from Scotland. But not many of the great men of the past and the present have emulated Rockefeller and Thayer in giving to the public some of the secrets of their success in life. When we analyse what he has to say, it might all be summed up in a few phrases willingness to work-not for eight bours, but for eighteen hours a day; rendiness to take whatever Work offered; adapability to circumstances and environment; observation, concentration, receptivity to new ideas, imagination, conrage, loyalty to oneself and to one's employers. We cannot but admire Mr. Thayer's campaign against lying and exaggerated advertising; and if for that alone he deserves the success of his labours. His book is well worth reading, and nowhere more than in Hongkong, for his ideas might well-NOTE: This mixture is pleasant to the taste be applied to other fields of enterprise than and warranted free from anything publishing and advertising. Business men who 634 (Tune 520), 266; Sevenfold Amen; Volunwant to learn something of the art of successful advertising should receive benefit from a perusal.

> The Mating of Anthea. By ARABELLA KENEYLLY. London: John Long, Limited. This is one of the books the reader closes with a sigh. The story is original. It is powerfully and graphically written, and interest and symp thy are quickened as the story un- Study Thursday 9. Literary Club. Friday 8.15 folds. It relates the experiment of a doctor, who brought up his ward from childhood to womanhood without learning to read and without acquiring that learning which the present age has deemed suitable for woman. He hopes to see realised in her perfect motherhood, Magnificat, armby (18th a m.); Kyrie, Viacent; but the doctor and his friend to whose son Anthea had been-betrothed from tender years, overlooked the most important factor of lifelove, with the result that between them they well nigh ruin the lives of the two young reople concerned. Auther found on her wedding night that she did not care for her husband as a wife should, and accordingly Faversham, and their union is made possible by the death of the young hu band who had gone to Western Africa and contracted fever.

Charity and the Navy. By LIONEL YEXLEY. London: Office of "The Fleet." In this brochure Mr. Lionel Yexley, whose knowledge of British naval affairs is unquestioned, exposes what he describes as a national scandal. He challenges the work done by Miss Weston in the name of the British sailor and declares that the money subscribed by the British people for her charities is practically nnnecessary and also that it does not go as far as it should. He suggests that too much is devoted to advertising. The author does not attempt to impage the bond fides of Miss Weston, whom he admits is well meaning, but dissatisfaction with her methods has grown. Mr. Yexley asks that the Service may itself have an opportunity of expressing its opinion on the work done by Miss Weston, and this brochura gives some idea of what Mr. Yexley means by the opinion of the Service.
